

University of Oregon

Indigenous, race, and ethnic studies

Study details

Course type: Bachelor's degree

Degree: Ethnic Studies BA/BS

Study mode: Full time

Duration: 48 Month

Cost of study

Cost : 44 598 USD

Reg. fee : N/A USD

Scholarship :

Insurance : N/A USD

Intake/s

Sep

Requirements

- English entry - TOEFL 88+ (IELTS 7.0)
- GPA entry - 3.0 GPA or equivalent

Accommodation

- Shared bedroom
- Shared bathroom
- Shared kitchen
- High-speed internet connectivity
- Rooms that come with basic furniture (bed, mattress, desk, chair, dresser and closet)
- All bills included
- Access to student lounges with TVs and games for entertainment
- On-site laundry facilities
- Secure door entry and security cameras for your safety

Speciality

If your English and / or academic level is lower than what you see above, please contact us. We will do everything we can to find you a great path to university.

Additional information

Degree Overview

This degree is offered by the College of Arts and Sciences, the University of Oregon's intellectual hub that serves about two-thirds of its students with nearly 800 faculty members covering the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences.

About the major

Students who study in the indigenous, race, and ethnic studies program will learn how to create greater social justice in our world.

Our department looks at the way that race is tied to many other issues, including gender, class, sexuality, migration, indigeneity, and colonialism. With our students, we investigate and critique examples of white supremacy, both historical and present. We focus not only on race in the United States, but also on migrations and diasporas (such as those that result from the slave trade, settler colonialism, and globalization).

A little more info

- Students receive mentoring and support as they address some of the most important questions of the contemporary era.
- Working together, IRES students are actively engaged in the campus and community.
- IRES majors have access to hundreds of UO alumni working in education, non-profits, government, and business.