Program description

Degree awarded: MGM Global Management (Global Legal Studies)

The global legal studies concentration within the MGM program is designed for students who desire to work in areas that require knowledge of global legal issues but may not want to be lawyers. Other students may use this concentration as an introduction to legal studies before pursuing law school.

Offered in collaboration with the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law, this program provides students with transdisciplinary global management and legal expertise that opens doors in multiple sectors within organizations operating around the world.

The first step in understanding and applying laws is developing an understanding of basic legal principles and then using those principles to identify and analyze relevant legal issues. Through the foundational courses of the Master of Global Management with a concentration in global legal studies, students master relevant legal principles while gaining legal analysis skills, mainly through case briefings, such as identifying a particular case's legal issue, articulating the legal rule, discussing the court's analysis and concluding. These legal analysis skills are tested on final exams in the foundational courses through hypothetical fact scenarios. Students gain a strong understanding of legal principles --- the basis of legal analysis --- and the ability to apply them in their field of interest.

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Develop the ability to build sustainable and trusting relationships with others from diverse parts of the world.
- Able to analyze global legal issues.
- Develop the ability to inspire others in a global world.

Global opportunities

Global experience

Students in Thunderbird's MGM program have unique opportunities to apply and hone their learning in international settings. Experiential learning exposes students to actual problems faced by leaders of multinational businesses and governmental or nonprofit organizations that operate on an international level.

Working with Thunderbird professors, their fellow students, alumni and corporate partners, students master and apply global management principles and concepts to meet real business challenges through special courses, labs and projects. Thunderbird offers a wide variety of experiential learning engagements, giving students the ability to solve real-world challenges by collaborating with the school's corporate partners around the world. Some options include:

Global Field Seminars

This one- or two-week seminar exposes students to the dynamics and nuances of doing business in a focused region of the world. Teams of students go on company site visits and attend high-level meetings and presentations with business, government and cultural leaders as well as with Thunderbird alumni. Students gain invaluable hands-on experience while expanding their global business skills, enabling them to become major assets to any organization they join after graduating.

Thunderbird Global Challenge Laboratories

This is a client-facing, project-based course built on a six- to seven-week immersion assignment in a key emerging or advanced market. Projects take students to destinations all over the world. They are tailored to the business needs of the client and challenge students to provide sophisticated data and market analysis, strategy recommendations and plans for sustained growth that are both practical and effective.

Career opportunities

Career examples include:

- compensation and benefits manager
- compliance manager
- human resources manager
- intelligence analyst
- regulatory affairs manager
- urban and regional planner
