Additional information

Overview

Styling models, setting up sets, arranging lighting, obsessing over details. Scouting locations, capturing moments. Blending analog and digital techniques. This is your world. In the B.A. Photography program, you will develop your own visual language.

In the B.A. Photography program, you will learn how images have an impact and what they can achieve, how to shape and stage information using analog and digital imaging techniques. With artistic freedom, you will explore all possibilities of visual design and discover your own style. You will realize your own projects and learn how to professionally execute client assignments. Your studies will include subjects such as advertising photography, press photography and photojournalism, artistic photography, product photography, and documentary photography.

Career Opportunities

Upon graduation, you will master diverse forms of photographic image design and possess extensive methodological, strategic, and conceptual media competence. You can work, for example, in applied fields such as portrait, fashion, editorial, advertising, product, and reportage photography.

Additional career fields arise within new visual media (Computer Generated Imagery, Stereo 3D, 360 x 180°, Virtual & Augmented Reality) or in areas such as curation and image editing, as well as in artistic photography.

Furthermore, with the Bachelor of Arts degree, you gain access to numerous advanced and master's degree programs both domestically and internationally.
