Degree Overview

This degree programme immerses you in the world of creative business thinking, helping you to prepare for employment after university whether you want to launch your own business or change an existing organisation. On this course you will learn and develop your entrepreneurial and creative skills and apply them to real-world situations.

Taught by lecturers and academic professionals with industry experience, this course will hone your key competences as you study core topics that cut across business and entrepreneurial practice. In your second and third years you can choose from a range of optional modules, enabling you to tailor your learning to your interests.

Throughout this course you will gain practical experience with a real business through the Consulting Live module and have the chance to take part in Fox's Lair – our annual contest for entrepreneurs. It focuses on teamwork, project management, research, communication and problem solving – all skills in demand by employers.

Study Reasons

The course offers and gives the opportunity to experience working with real companies as a consultant. As part of a team, you will visit a client and then present them with solutions to issues affecting their business.

In this course you will be given the chance to pitch a business idea to real-life entrepreneurs, with the chance to win a great prize, through our annual 'Fox's Lair' competition for first-year students

Employers are now looking for graduates who possess the types of enterprising skills and attitudes taught on this course, enabling them to be successful across a range of different environments and contexts.
