Degree Overview

Alongside the core international business modules, students will explore strategic management accounting and global financial markets. Students can also explore this area further with optional modules on international accounting reporting, emerging financial markets and global risk analysis.

From the core modules, students will learn to understand and analyse a range of international strategies and businesses relevant to the modern global economy. Students will also engage with key areas such as global financial markets, international trade and global investment.

This degree option allows you to focus on the areas of accounting & finance. A solid understanding of accounting/finance principles and processes is useful in all business careers. Particularly helpful if you're a manager or decision maker, managing budgets, reporting on return, and much more.
