Degree Overview

When you study for a Bachelor of Commerce / Bachelor of Arts double degree, you have the benefits of attending two different schools. At The University of Notre Dame Australia's School of Business, a combination of practical case studies and client-based projects is combined with a solid theoretical and ethical grounding.

In our School of Arts, you will study a Major in areas such as Archaeology, English Literature, Social Justice, Politics and International Relations, History or Theatre Studies, which will give you in-depth, specialist knowledge and skills that will allow you to contribute effectively to the cultural and intellectual life of society.

Through this holistic approach to learning, we prepare you for the workplaces of tomorrow.

You will benefit from small class sizes and dedicated lecturers and tutors with broad industry experience and projects based on real case studies. You will benefit from industry field trips to lead agencies and companies, and business internships will allow you to show off your skills.

Upon graduation, you will be able to gain employment in various industries, including financial institutions, multinational corporations, government departments, public utilities, and specialist organisations.

Study Reasons
