Sandwich course fees - charged during the placement year away from the University of Bradford for students on thick sandwich courses, or during the year in which the second placement falls for students on thin sandwich courses. Students charged at 10% of the equivalent full-time fee.

If a placement year is to be undertaken abroad and supported by University funding through the University's exchange programmes, fees will increase to 15% of standard fees to cover additional support, advice and administration costs.

Additional information

Degree Overview

Through this course you will develop a firm understanding of policy and legislative issues, and get the hands-on practical experience you need to be an effective practitioner. You will study topics such as: legislation relating to education, child, protection and health, roles and responsibilities of agencies, multi-agency working, communicating with children through play, art, and role play.

This degree will give you the opportunity to explore different aspects of working with children and families, in a variety of environments. Upon graduation you'll be able to pursue careers in areas such as family support, community development, education, and mentorship.

After graduation you may choose to pursue further study after graduation, such as the MA in Social Work, giving you the qualification you need to be a social worker.
