Additional information

Degree Overview

Our interior design course nurtures the ability to rethink existing interiors as well as looking at the spaces created between structures. It focuses on the way people interact within these environments. This degree programme will make you explore the regeneration and adaptation of real buildings and sites and learn how to turn old commercial premises into exciting new spaces for exhibition, retail, leisure, eating and socialising purposes. Throughout the course you will develop skills in drawing, 3D modelling, computing, video-modelscope and computer-aided design (CAD). On this course you will learn about the importance of visual communication, design cultures and heritage, culture and context. This solid foundation will enable you to develop your own personal style and design language and, as you grow in confidence, you'll become increasingly autonomous as you pursue individual design projects

Study Reasons

This course has offered students the opportunity to enter prestigious competitions which have earned students prizes from the British Institute of Interior Design, the Interior Design Association and the Royal Society for the encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce.

DMU is ranked 16 for the best university to study design related courses in the UK

Our graduates have gone on to work in a variety of areas within interior design, including interior specialists for architects, exhibition and event designers, heritage design, set design consultants, point of sale design and 3D visualisers.
